

Zach Howell

Zach Howell is a recent graduate of the University of Utah where he received his degree in Political Science. While at the U, Zach was the State Chairman of the Utah Federation of College Republicans and later the Western Region Vice-Chair of the College Republican National Committee. He also interned through the Hinckley Institute in 2006 when he interned for Congressman Chris Cannon and also interned in the White House Office of Strategic Initiatives in 2007.

Most recently, Zach was elected Chairman of the College Republican National Committee. The CRNC is a Washington D.C. based organization that serves as a national umbrella group for the 50 College Republican state federations and 1800 campus chapters. The position was previously held by politicians such as Lee Atwater and fellow Utah student and Hinckley alumnus Karl Rove. Zach looks forward to helping the Republican Party reach out to young voters and working to make the organization stronger.
